Hi, I'm Ndulu Sabuni, Executive Director of Sabuni Social Services (SSS), a Colorado-based nonprofit serving immigrants, refugees, and underserved communities.

Many refugee and immigrant community members face language barriers, limited access to information, and lack of representation in local decision-making.
I'm working to address these challenges through civic education, language access, community outreach, and partnerships with local institutions.
Together, we can empower at least 100 people to understand their rights, access reliable information, and make their voices heard.

Will you join me in making sure every voice matters and every community is heard?

SABUNI SOCIAL SERVICES (SSS)

Every Voice Matters

A Six-Month Civic Engagement Action Plan

Empowering immigrants, refugees, and underserved communities to participate in decisions that shape their lives.

INFORMED COMMUNITIES. STRONGER CONNECTIONS. SHARED DECISIONS.

Why civic participation matters

Many community members want to be heard—but face barriers to getting involved.

Language barriers

Limited interpretation and translated information can make civic systems difficult to navigate.

Information gaps

Residents may not know where to find reliable information about rights, services, and local decisions.

Limited representation

Immigrant and refugee voices may be missing from conversations that affect their families.

Trust and access

Unfamiliar institutions and limited opportunities to connect can discourage participation.

A practical, community-centered approach

Over six months, I will make civic information easier to access and participation easier to achieve.

01 Civic education

Host workshops that explain civic processes, rights, responsibilities, and local decision-making.

02 Language access

Provide interpretation, translation, and easy-to-understand educational materials.

03 Community outreach

Hold meetings and listening sessions through trusted community networks.

04 Partnerships

Work with community leaders, nonprofits, and public institutions to connect residents with information.

What success will look like

The program will focus on measurable progress—not just activities.

100+

participants reached

Increased civic knowledge

Participants better understand civic processes and where to find reliable information.

Fewer participation barriers

Language access and outreach help residents take part more confidently.

Stronger relationships

Partnerships build trust between communities and public institutions.

MEASUREMENT: attendance sheets • activity reports • partnership records • participant feedback

A six-month plan, supported by partnerships

I will coordinate implementation and work with partners and volunteers to extend its reach.

Months 1–2

Listen & plan

Community surveys, listening sessions, partner outreach

Months 3–4

Engage & educate

ESTIMATED BUDGET $20,000

Outreach • workshops • language services • materials • meetings • transportation • evaluation

Help every voice be heard.

I invite public institutions, community leaders, nonprofits, and volunteers to join me in building more informed, connected, and empowered communities.

PARTNER

Share civic information and connect residents to local resources.

PARTICIPATE

Support workshops, listening sessions, and community outreach.

AMPLIFY

Help immigrant and refugee voices shape decisions that affect their lives.

Every voice matters. Every community deserves to be heard.
